WISCONSIN MANDATORY CONTINUING LEGAL EDUCATION (CLE) REQUIREMENT

PUBLISHED LEGAL WRITING

Credit for published legal writing for use toward the Wisconsin mandatory CLE Requirement may be granted pursuant to Wisconsin Supreme Court Rule 31.07(3)* and the following rules adopted by the Board of Bar Examiners:

CLE 7.06(1)

A published legal writing is defined as material that satisfies all of the following criteria:

- (a) It is in printed form as a book, a supplement or a pocket part to a book, or an article in a publication that is included in the Index to Legal Periodicals. For the purposes of this definition, systems manuals that are developed and offered for sale are deemed to be books;
- (b) It is commercially available or distributed to at least 500 lawyers; and
- (c) It satisfies the criteria set forth in SCR 31.07(2)(a) and (b) in that its objective is to increase the reader's professional competence as a lawyer, and in that its content must deal primarily with matters related to the practice of law, professional responsibility or ethical obligations of lawyers.

CLE 7.06(2)

Published legal writings specifically exclude the following:

- (a) Compilations of materials written by others;
- (b) Contributions to newsletters;
- (c) Written materials that are developed and distributed at continuing legal education activities in accordance with SCR 31.07(2)(e).

CLE 7.07

In order to request approval for a published legal writing, a written request for approval designated CLE Form 4 and a copy of the published legal writing must be submitted by its author to the Board.

CLE 7.08

A lawyer may claim his or her actual preparation time up to a maximum of 15 hours for any approved published legal writing.

CLE 7.09

A lawyer may not claim in excess of 15 hours for all approved published legal writings in any one reporting period.

CLE 7.10

The only reporting period in which hours for an approved published legal writing may be claimed is that in which the writing was published.

*SCR 31.07(3) states: "The board may approve published legal writings for use toward the continuing legal education requirement under rules it may adopt."
